

Don't be afraid to step out and take a risk. You don't want to end up rotting away in a backwater someday wishing that you had...

Years ago when we were considering purchasing a new house, and weighing up the risks, a friend said "some days just getting out of bed can be a risk".

A ship in
harbor is safe,
but that is not
what ships are built for.... J. A. Shedd.

Ships are built to sail the high seas, plying their trade, not sitting in a port somewhere playing things safe.

What are you meant to be doing?
